Building Healthy Relationships: Guts, Courage and Emotional Strength

Leadership Summit for High School Students

This summit will educate and inspire youth leaders to be agents of change in their schools, fostering relationships based on equity and a culture of respect. Schools are invited to bring 10 students who are peer influencers and potential leaders representing a range of perspectives, genders and backgrounds.

Nationally-recognized speaker Jackson Katz will empower students to challenge gender norms and think boldly about relationships, leadership, and equality and how that fits into school culture. Interactive peer-led breakout sessions will build on themes of empathy, gender roles, and resilience – skills that will teach youth ways to make a positive change in their community and school.

Jackson Katz is a national leader in the movement of men working to promote gender equality and prevent gender violence
